

NSSF

VOLUME 18, NUMBER 1
JANUARY 2010

SHOT BUSINESS

SHOOTING, HUNTING & OUTDOOR TRADE

GUNS 2010

What will sell this year? Here's the lowdown on the new rifles, shotguns and handguns that dealers should stock

BONUS: Want to put more money in your pocket? Take advantage of our New Year's resolutions designed to help you do just that PG. 28

New Products

WENGER

The Swiss Army knife is the original multi-tasker, but even so, Wenger knows it can't stand still. That's why it continues to develop new, highly functional but ultra-cool knives. Building on the success of the EvoGrip, Wenger has applied the same concept to the Ranger series. Just as with the EvoGrip's, the new Ranger's handle increases safety, performance and efficiency by embedding special non-slip rubber just where the user needs it most—on the four major areas of contact between the hand and the knife. The RangerGrip 178 (green) boasts a 4-inch, one-hand-opening blade as well as a double-cut wood saw, a Phillips-head screwdriver and other tools. The RangerGrip 75 (red) adds needle-nose pliers to the basic design. The Ranger 178 (black) features a patented locking screwdriver as well as a one-hand-opening, 4-inch partially serrated blade. SRP: $64.95–$104.95. (800-431-2996; wengerna.com)

Continued on page 68